STATE-OF-THE-ART SERVICES DELIVERED IN A TIMELY, COST-EFFECTIVE MANNER

CCGI is one of 12 companies selected to provide information technology (IT) support services and project related hardware under the U.S. Department of Justice's (DOJ) Information Technology Support Services (ITSS-3) contract. Work is performed under ITSS-3, a multiple-agency, indefinite delivery/indefinite quantity contract, through competitively awarded task orders potentially worth $980 million over the duration of the seven-year contract. Task orders can range from support pertaining to information security, systems design, data warehousing and records management.

The ITSS-3 program is designed to procure state-of-the-art IT services and project related hardware in a timely and cost-effective manner. The program is available for use nationwide and overseas on a non-mandatory basis by all DOJ components and other federal agencies. Every conceivable IT service can be procured under the ITSS-3 program, including systems development life cycle, information and management systems, database management systems and software languages, and computer hardware environments and operating systems.
