

NEWS FLASH- CGI Releases EAS 5.0

August 10, 2007

CGI is proud to announce the availability of the newly enhanced Exposure Assessment System, EAS 5.0.

Exposure Assessment System (EAS) is a proven health exposure risk management tool—a tool aligned with the American Industrial Hygiene Association's (AIHA) exposure assessment methodology. This methodology and the enabling EAS technology assist an organization to:

- Establish an exposure assessment strategy
- Collect basic characterization information (workplace, work force and agents)
- Assess exposures to the work force
- Document sampling campaigns and sample results
- Prioritize health risks and control strategies
- Document and communicate health risk exposures

One of the most significant enhancements to this solution is the integration with a robust EHS reporting application, IQx™. IQx has an easy-to-use web interface that give users the ability to generate ad-hoc reports and executive dashboard views of the Industrial Hygiene program. The addition of this powerful reporting tool raises the visibility of the Safety Program within an enterprise.

Additional functionality includes enhanced user-configuration features, addition of attachment capabilities, and the ability to import HR data.

Whether you are developing an exposure assessment program, implementing one, or are involved in sustaining one, EAS 5.0 is a tool that will enable you to implement a management systems framework. The solution gives you the flexibility and robustness to manage all facets of your exposure assessment program on a single platform.
