The complete rating solution

Ratabase Output Designer allows you to bring more efficiency and cost savings to your business processes by gaining even further benefits from your investment in your Ratabase database. By harnessing the power of Microsoft Excel, Output Designer allows your business experts to easily build output/rate pages with the data that is in your Ratabase database. These enhanced worksheets have an automatic link to your company's Ratabase database, bringing you the ability to create pages that contain direct Ratabase rate extracts or formula calculations. Once created, Output Designer allows you to update your output pages with a simple click of a button whenever you have new rate filings or your Ratabase data is updated. And because Output Designer is one-way access, you can use it to provide individuals, who are not trained in the Ratabase Product Builder, access to your Ratabase data without the risk of your production data being compromised.

Simple creation of rate pages

Output Designer is installed and accessed through the Excel menus and toolbars. The flexibility of this component combined with the powerful editing features of Excel allows you to utilize the Rate Page Wizard to assist you in formatting an output page or you can free-form design your output pages to your company's specifications. Your newly created output pages will automatically extract valuable information from your Ratabase database and can be printed as a traditional output page in Excel format, exported to make an HTML page, or formatted for emailing as an attachment.

Output Designer provides a rich set of features for designing output pages that contain rate retrievals, formula calculations, and key values from your Ratabase development database. You have complete control over your data selections and layout specifications. Some of the exciting ways Output Designer is being used to increase productivity include:

- Design, creation, and maintenance of rating output pages
- Publish rate pages on the Internet/intranet for remote agency access
- Produce rate filing pages for distribution to regulatory agencies
- Produce documents that can be automatically updated to reflect current rates and rules
- Export output to Microsoft Word, ASCII, or HTML
- Serve as input to other systems for regulatory reporting
- Quickly produce documents for testing and rate comparisons
- Extract rate tables for Quality Assurance
