

Ratabase Exchange

CGI transforms how insurers price, enhance and distribute products with our innovative integration platform.

Change is the only constant in insurance, whether it's caused by new regulation, trends in how insurance is sold, or the impact of emerging technologies. Insurers need to invest in platforms that help them take advantage of the changing landscape.

THE CHALLENGE

In today's market, insurers face many challenges to success: platform agility, effective use of data, distribution and speed to market, renewal retention and quality of underwriting. CGI works with insurers every day, and we hear the same themes often:

- What technology do we need to enable rapid deployment of pricing changes to all of our channels?
- How can we leverage emerging technology such as machine learning in our underwriting process?
- How can we make more effective use of data and feed this into our pricing?
- How can we reduce the cost associated with frequent price changes and take better control of our product distribution?
- Do we have the skills to ensure our systems are safe in the light of cyber threats?
- How will we survive in light of technology that is transforming industry after industry?

THE SOLUTION: RATABASE EXCHANGE

Ratabase Exchange is a modular integration platform that provides insurers, MGAs, brokers, agents, data providers and other industry organizations with the following capabilities:

- Underwriting product control and distribution management (channel)
- Data enrichment for more granular risk assessment (data enrichment)
- Fraud prevention and risk selection (fraud)

Ratabase Exchange was developed by CGI in partnership with insurers in the U.K. CGI provides the platform modules, connectivity development, integration, hosting and ongoing service management, making the solution quick to implement and easy to maintain.

“The way insurers communicate product and pricing information to brokers has not improved significantly for a long time. While existing processes have served the industry well there is now a requirement for a responsive, market-based IHP system like CGI's service.”

Pranay Manocha, Head of Digital Products for ERS
