

Cloud Strategy Enablement

We provide our clients with independent advice and guidance, helping them to define an optimal cloud strategy which delivers successful business outcomes.

The challenge

Many organisations are challenged to keep pace with a rapidly changing digital world. To be successful in an increasingly competitive landscape, organisations must be able to respond and adapt quickly to changing business needs, or they risk falling behind their competition who are more agile.

We often hear “cloud-first is our strategy”, but without the expertise and experience to create a clear cloud strategy which aligns an organisation’s people, processes and technology, it can be difficult for organisations to know where to begin. Typical challenges we hear include:

- How can we increase business agility, reduce application time-to-market and scale to meet user demands?
- How can we align all of our stakeholders to get behind this journey?
- How can we measure the success of our cloud strategy and ability to execute against it?
- What should our target operating model look like, and what organisational team structure do we need to deliver it?
- How can we ensure secure governance for processes, workflows, applications, operations, B2B and B2C?
- How do we maintain data sovereignty concerns across geographical and political boundaries?
- Will we achieve a sustained reduction in TCO over time?
- How can we make best use of cloud technologies?
- How do we kick-start a stalled cloud transformation?

With many organisations planning a move to cloud to meet such demands, having a clear cloud strategy becomes a critical part of the journey.
