

CGI Elements360

Workbench

Rapidly transform underwriting capabilities and deliver measurable business value, fast.

CGI Elements360 Workbench provides underwriters with the tools, data, and enhanced workflows they need to write more of the right business that best-fits their appetite.

Today, underwriters must sift through an increasing volume of noise to identify the most relevant risks, while working through large amounts of unstructured risk information. This is challenging enough but is made even more painful by having to deal with additional administrative paperwork and processes, many of which are likely to be manual. This results in frustrating, time-consuming, and inefficient underwriting experiences.

Overcome obstacles and accelerate innovation

CGI Elements360 Workbench is an open, modular and extendable platform that provides underwriters with the tools, capabilities and workflows they need to eradicate the noise and focus their time on the underwriting that only they can do. Built in collaboration with clients CGI Elements360 Workbench provides the capabilities insurers need to:

Discover: The teams and lines of business most ready to take advantage of these new ways of working to help underwriters focus on the right business and next best actions.

Define: How to most rapidly deliver the new capabilities and have the biggest impact on business growth.

Design: Ways of working that meet the specific needs of their underwriting teams.

Develop: Scale initial implementations that prove the business value of empowering underwriters to focus on the true discipline of underwriting.

Key benefits include:

- Deliver measurable success, faster
- Maximise underwriter productivity
- Establish a competitive advantage
- Accelerate the adoption of new ways of working
- Overcome legacy constraints
- Rapidly integrate new technologies and sources of data
- Out-of-the-box alignment with future industry initiatives
- Seamlessly and efficiently extend the solution across your organisation.

Maximise underwriter performance

CGI Elements360 Workbench enables underwriters to:

Tie it all together and see everything in one place, facilitate access to the data and tools underwriters need, from lead to close

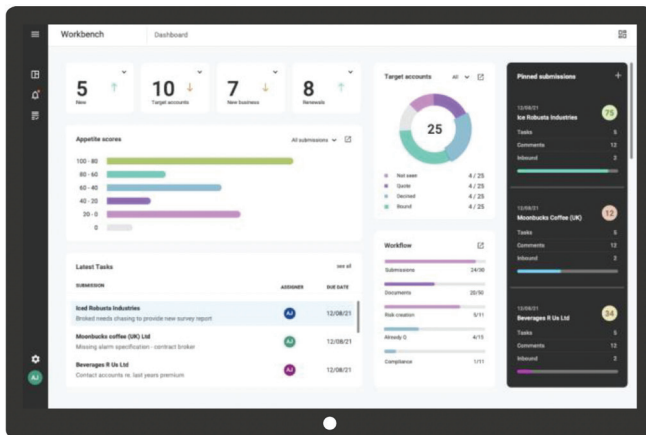

Focus on the right risks at the right time, by configuring our unique appetite filters to triage incoming submissions

Work more effectively, by using powerful collaboration and knowledge insight tools that overcome the silos that stall sales

Operate with confidence and breakdown organisational silos, by capturing the context that informs decisions

Accelerate the underwriting process and win back time, by automating low value tasks and eliminating the need to re-key data

Rapidly adapt to new opportunities and maintain a competitive edge, by using an open and extendable solution that facilitates the rapid integration of new technologies, tools and sources of data.
