

CGI Trade360 Cash Management

Enable cash management
across the globe

When your client says,
“I want my bank to provide online banking to manage my accounts,” CGI Trade360 provides the cash management functionality well suited for the smaller corporates of an international branch.

When the bank needs to provide both cash and trade capabilities to its clients ...

CGI Trade360 uniquely provides seamless front-to-back processing for trade and cash management, giving clients a seamless experience.

For smaller businesses using cash management, trade and supply chain products, having a seamless front end on a single platform for all of these functions creates a much better client experience. Many banks with foreign branches would like to offer cash management services through those branches, but are unable to easily extend their domestic technology due to a lack of global capabilities and multi-language functionality for the foreign markets.

CGI Trade360 enables banks to provide clients with online account query and transfer between accounts, as well as single and bulk domestic and international payments. CGI Trade360's Transaction Processing System provides fully integrated back-office processing and integrates with the bank's downstream settlement and clearing systems.
