HELPING GOVERNMENT FULFILL ITS MISSION TO CITIZENS

The financial crisis, change in administration, and continuing resolutions put unprecedented pressure on the federal government. As a result, agencies face a "perfect storm" of increasing budgetary concerns, tightly constrained resources, changing priorities and rising demand for services. At the same time, citizens expect more government services while seeking increased accountability and transparency. As federal priorities and mandates evolve, government agencies must constantly adapt to meet new standards.

Partnering for success

Working side-by-side with our federal government clients, CGI helps agencies successfully address these demands every day. Founded in 1976, CGI has worked with more than 100 federal departments, agencies and independent commissions to help them achieve their missions. CGI's IT and managed services solutions enable our federal clients to reduce and contain costs; increase revenue collections; improve operational efficiency accountability and effectiveness; transform government service delivery; and focus on mission results.
